

Science Agora 2010 (November 20, 2010)

All WPI centers (AIMR, IPMU, iCeMS, IFRcC, MANA) and Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS) held a workshop at Science Agora 2010 (place: Tokyo International Exchange Center). We discussed the future strategies in science and technology of Japan treating the WPI program as an example of the theme. Mr. Yuichi Takayanagi, the Director of Tamarokuto Science Center, was invited as the facilitator of the workshop, and various opinions were given not only by the invited speakers but also by the participants under a Mr. Takayanagi's guidance. For example, it was emphasized that public participation in science and technology is one of the important factor to create an innovation.

You can download the summary of this workshop from the following site:

<http://www.jsps.go.jp/j-toplevel/data/agorareport.pdf> (Japanese Only)

Thank you very much for your interest and participation.

Advanced Institute for Materials Research

WPI*AIMR